"FAVORITE" PERSON'S PHOTO

Personalized Toilet Paper

"It's the ultimate personal, practical joke," says Jim Carlberg, who's developed a rapidly-growing business around "personalized" toilet paper. It's custom imprinted with the photo or saying of your choice.

Besides custom-printed rolls, Carlberg sells stock rolls already imprinted with photos of David Stockman, John Block, Ronald Reagan or Chicago mayor Harold Washington. A stock roll sells for $4.95, plus postage.

Carlberg notes that many requests are for rolls with an in-law's, boss's or ex-spouse's picture. He says custom-rolls are also frequently ordered as gag gifts for weddings, birthdays and anniversaries. Some colleges and other groups even sell custom-printed toilet paper to raise money.

The 2-ply paper is straight off the grocery store shelf and the ink used is "hygienically acceptable," says Carlberg.

For your own custom-designed toilet paper, send him a photo (color or black and white) or saying. Cost is $22.70 for the minimum order of four rolls.

Toilet paper imprinted with David Stockman's photo has been a "best seller".

ALSO KEEPS OUT GNATS, FLIES

"Bug Proof" Suit Repels Mosquitoes

Anyone who goes outside is a candidate for this bug-proof Skeeter Suit," says inventor Ada DeMare, of Hayward, Wis.

"Nothing, but nothing, can get inside this protective suit. It not only protects against pesky mosquitoes but also keeps out gnats, black flies, deer flies, bees and other biting or stinging pests that mar those otherwise idyllic summer months," Ada points out.

Her fast-selling Skeeter Suit is made of 100% snag-resistant polyester mesh fabric. The small mesh keeps out insects, yet allows a free flow of air, making it practical and comfortable even on hottest days, says Ada. She adds that the material cleans and dries easily, and rolls up small enough to fit into a back pocket, purse, backpack or tackle box.

The Skeeter can be purchased as a complete suit (jacket, pants and ankle guards) for $66.85. Or, the pieces are available separately (in small, medium, large or extra large) for $29.95 for the jacket, $22.95 for the pants, and $13.95 for the ankle guards.
