

Reader Letters

After reading about it in FARM SHOW, I bought used airplane tires for a potato harvester and got twice as many plows for half as much money as I could anywhere else. Saved about $800 in reading just that one article. I'll always be a subscriber to FARM SHOW.

I would like to say that I have read a lot of magazines in the last 25 years and FARM SHOW is the best. This magazine is the only one I can read from front to back and enjoy everything I read. I farm about 900 acres in Western Kentucky.

We enjoy your magazine and are sending a list of friends who might enjoy it too. I seldom read farm magazines since most of them no longer have a woman's section but I find FARM SHOW very interesting — especially the "best and worst buys", and articles on new things from inventions to houses. We think your publication is a winner!

I especially like FARM SHOW's report where readers tell it like it is. I would hope these comments prompt companies and also dealers to take a second look at some of the policies they expect farmer-customers to accept without any ill feelings at all. What a ripoff!

I'd like to compliment FARM SHOW on your article in Vol. 3, No. 2 about the new "no gas engine that never shuts off". To a future farmer like me, this new development is very important. It is obvious that something will have to be done about the energy situation in this country.

I have followed Rory Johnson's new engine since early 1977, and have cut out every article that I can find. At first it was hard to believe that a man could build an engine that was noiseless, pollutionless and, most of all, did not rely on petroleum, which is in short supply. I hope for everyone's sake that Rory Johnson has something going here. After all, a man who has 39 patents to his name could turn out to be another Thomas Edison or Benjamin Franklin whose inventions were also hard to believe. Enjoy reading your magazine very much.

A Vice President of our bank showed me the article about Mr. Burke and his system to "generate your own electricity". It was the first time I had seen the FARM SHOW magazine.

I would like to comment on the skeptic's remark in the story about Burke's concept being in "direct opposition to well-known and proven laws of physics". Is the skeptic saying that all has been discovered that is possible about physics? In most cases, professional students have not had the practical experience, or they are brainwashed into believing that all has been discovered.

In reading FARM SHOW, I was left with a most positive feeling. Finally, someone is printing something that is beneficial for people to read and learn from. No cover-ups. Sharing is what our country was built on and the unknown is what kept our forefathers and mothers moving west. How dark would the world be today had Thomas Edison said, "I know 10,000 reasons why the light bulb won't work."

You have a great paper. Each issue is passed around and studied by approximately 100 persons, including our Young Farmer group.

Enclosed is our $18 check for a 3 year FARM SHOW subscription. Where have you been? Your letter of invitation to subscribe was the first we had heard of your magazine. Congratulations on your idea, and your search for truth in merchandising. We get awfully tired of the "advertising back scratcher" articles in most of the so-called leading farm magazines. Hogwash! I hope you disclose the truth of these "free" caps, jackets, tropical vacations, etc. Also, the clincher for us in deciding to subscribe was not having to fill out one of those "snooper cards" on acres, income, livestock raised, and so forth.

Editor's Note: Several readers have asked for help in locating products they would like to buy. If you know where the following products are available, please send the manufacturer's name and address to FARM

SHOW Magazine, Box 704,
Lakeville, Minn. 55044.

1. A company that makes do-it-yourself forms to precast "H" type center bunk feeders and fence line feeders.

2. A company that makes stainless steel mufflers for tractors.

My husband received his first issue of FARM SHOW Wednesday. He sat up late into the night and read the whole thing — didn't fall asleep in between articles like he does with other farm papers. He really thinks FARMSHOW is great. I have been given strict orders to save every issue and not to cut them up.

I'd like to take this opportunity to tell you that I think you publish the most worthy farm publication on the market. Here's hoping your circulation grows and grows.
